Editorial Profile

Haitienne Magazine is a unique publication that highlights the accomplishments, issues and interests of the Haitian women in North America, Haiti and around the world. She is a woman of two cultures, a Haitian, highly educated and ambitious. Haitienne the Magazine is a national bimonthly consumer periodical for Haitian women. Haitienne has an independent editorial spirit. We address the distinctive concerns of Haitian women personal and professional spectrum. Our goal is to serve our readership through accessibly written articles presented in an intelligent, non political and courageous manner.

We are not just another ethnic woman magazine. Haitienne is a fierce supporter of the needs and rights of Haitian woman first – in fact, a woman with many roles in her life that must comfortably coexist with being a Diaspora woman. Thus, rather than addressing her narrowly as a Haitian woman, Haitienne will speak to her as the multidimensional Caribbean woman that she is. Close-knit, attached to their cultures, and quick to seize the educational and professional opportunities of their host country, Haitian women have established themselves as one of the most dynamic and entrepreneurial groups in the country. Besides their “migration experience,” the most significant characteristic of the Haitian women immigrants is that they take education very seriously.

We view the Haitienne reader as an exceptional woman. She is a Haitian woman who balances the often extraordinary demands on her life with the need to create a family experience as close to home as possible in Diasporas circumstances.

The values of the Haitienne reader are reflected in her own level of high-quality personal care and the natural products she purchases for herself and her family. She recognizes that in order to succeed in a foreign land and, a prerequisite is having a woman who takes care of herself – body, mind and spirit. She is passionate, educated, smart, resourceful and successful. The Haitienne reader is a member of a select group of Haitian women with the desire and motivation to be informed on what is best for herself and ultimately, her family.

Editorial Mission

Founder/ Publisher/ Editorial Director

Our mission is to expose Haitian women to information, products and services that draw from modern practices and ancient philosophies – a broad spectrum of content that will help Haitian women successfully manage their lives, mind, body and spirit. Haitienne offers interesting and insightful interviews with experienced Haitian women; beauty and fashions for Haitian women and their children; natural methods of preventing illness and promoting healthful lifestyles; parenting advice, Haitian’s men perspective; immigration legislation and related policy developments affecting Haitian women; useful guidelines for personal relationships; easy time- and health-effective recipes for meal preparation; balancing work and parenting; and helpful stress prevention techniques.

Haitians in America

Conventional wisdom places most Haitians living in the United States either in Miami or in the metropolitan New York City area. The truth is, however, Haitians now reside in many other places in the United States: from north to south and from east to west.

Those who live in these places — be they second generation Haitian-Americans or more recently arrived immigrants - share much more than their Haitian heritage. They share a desire to succeed in their new homeland, to maintain their heritage as they undertake that quest, and, at the same time, to contribute to the well being of the land they left behind as well as to the communities they now call home.

Haitian immigrants and their families are located in many communities other than those mentioned above. In 1997, Haitians-Americans for Economic Development (HAFED) used 1990 census data to indicate that Haitians and Haitian-Americans reside in all 50 states and the District of Columbia. Beyond a doubt, those numbers have expanded considerably since 1990. Census data from 2000 in Florida alone, for example, indicates a 117 percent increase of the Haitian population in that state. And, the largest percentage growth of the Florida population was not in Miami-Dade County, but rather in Broward County, with Palm Beach a close second!

CPM Calculator

The CPM Calculator is basically Max Play: 10 seconds a tool that helps you in calculating how much you will be spending to have your advertisement displayed on other sites through a web banner etc. CPM stands for Cost per Thousand impressions. Basically this means how much it will cost you for every thousand times your banner is displayed.

Now let's get into how the CPM system works in terms of charging you. If a web site owner asks you for $10.00 CPM, what this means is that you will be charged .10 cents every time your banner is displayed on their web page. This is regardless of the number of times it is clicked. If you are looking for the best way to advertise using your web banner adverts, the most commonly used method is CPM. Many web site owners have found it to be the most cost effective way of advertising online.

Once you have decided that you need to advertise online through banners, you need to carefully consider all options and decide on the best option for your type of business. It is recommended for you to highly consider the CPM option, as it gives you a good amount of exposure, and is more or less not as expensive. The CPM calculator can help you in determining how much you will actually be spending in this regards. So it can help you greatly in finding the right balance for you. The CPM calculator can really help you establish a good budget for yourself and your web site. And with the CPM calculator you have the chance of saving some money and making some money at the same time.
